

I am strongly in favor of only paying for individual channels rather than packages. Like many other things, why should I pay for a service I never use? We should at least be given a choice as to a package or individual channels, and the market will show what is teh most cost effective and popular.